

Dr. Jeffrey Baron received his MD from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. He did a residency in pediatrics at Yale-New Haven Hospital, followed by a fellowship in pediatric endocrinology at the National Institutes of Health (NIH) in Bethesda, Maryland. He has remained at the NIH where he is now a senior investigator and Head of the Section on Growth and Development in the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. His research focuses on the regulation of childhood growth and the etiology childhood growth disorders.